General Statement: The Division desires to provide courteous and timely service to all applicants for licensure. To maximize its efficiency and level of service, the Division will process complete applications only. A complete application includes all applicable supporting documents and fees. The fees are for processing your application and will not be refunded. Failure to complete the application and supply all necessary information may result in denial of licensure. Please read all instructions carefully.

It is your responsibility to directly notify the Division of any change in address. Also, please note, the address of record is public information, available upon request and via the Internet. You may choose to use a business address or a P.O. Box for your address of record rather than your home address.

Additional Important Information:

1. Utah Electrical Licensing Examination: After you have submitted this application and it is approved, DOPL will send you a letter authorizing you to take the examination(s) related to the license for which you have applied. Contact Experior directly at the address and telephone number below to register for the exam. Experior will not register you for any examination unless you have an authorization letter from DOPL.

Experior, 5486 South 1900 West, Suite C, Taylorsville, Utah 84118, (801) 355-5009.

There is a separate fee for the examination, which is the responsibility of the applicant to the testing agency.

2. Laws and Rules: You are required to understand all Utah laws and rules pertaining to your practice as an electrician.

The following applicable laws and rules are available on the Internet at <http://www.commerce.state.ut.us/dopl/dopl1.htm>.

You may also purchase them for a fee from Experior at the address and telephone above.

- Division of Occupational & Professional Licensing Act
- General Rules of the Division of Occupational & Professional Licensing
- Utah Construction Trades Licensing Act
- Electricians Licensing Rules

3. Temporary License: The State of Utah does not issue temporary licenses to electricians. You must obtain your license prior to performing any electrical work.
4. Apprenticeship: The beginning date of an apprenticeship or training program is the date upon which the applicant is approved for Utah licensure as an apprentice.

Applicants who have begun an electrical apprentice in another state may request to have credit for that portion of the apprenticeship or trainee ship completed in the other state if the division and the board find that the program in the other state is equal to the apprenticeship or trainee ship program required in the State of Utah. The burden for demonstrating equivalency of the out-of-state apprenticeship or trainee ship program lies with the applicant. Equivalency may be demonstrated by documentation of the curriculum and training which is required as a part of the program of the other state.

5. Licensure by Endorsement: Applicants who are currently licensed in a state, local jurisdiction of a state, district, or territory of the United States as a master electrician, journeyman electrician, or residential journeyman electrician may obtain licensure in Utah in the same license classification.

Each applicant for a journeyman electrician license shall: (a) provide verification that he or she holds a current journeyman electrician license in good standing; and (b) if licensed in the states or district of Alaska, Colorado, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, Wyoming, or any other state found by the division and board to have training and examination requirements equivalent to Utah, document 6,000 hours of work as a licensed journeyman electrician; or (c) document 8,000 hours of legal work in the electrical trade and apply for approval to take the appropriate Utah Electrical Licensing Examination.

Each applicant for a master electrician, residential master electrician, or residential journeyman electrician license shall: (a) provide verification that he or she holds a current master electrician, residential master electrician, or residential journeyman electrician license in good standing; (b) document completion of an apprenticeship, trainee ship, or experience equivalent to that required under Utah law; and (c) document successful passing of examinations equivalent to the Utah Electrical Licensing Examination; or pass the Utah Electrical Licensing Examination.

The burden for demonstrating equivalency of apprenticeship, trainee ship, experience, and examinations lies with the applicant. The fact that an applicant is licensed by any other jurisdiction or the fact that the applicant has practiced in an electrical trade for a length of time does not demonstrate equivalency. The applicant must present evidence demonstrating the content of the apprenticeship, trainee ship, or experience, and examination completed by the applicant are equivalent in scope with that required by this state.

ANSWERS TO COMMON QUESTIONS

- Q How many types of electrician licenses are available?
A There are five (5) types of licenses available: Apprentice, Residential Journeyman, Journeyman, Residential Master and Master.
- Q How can I get a temporary Permit?
A There are no temporary permits.
- Q What form of documentation is acceptable to verify previous work experience?
A The preferred form is the "Employer's Verification Form", but a letter on company letterhead including all the information on the form will be accepted.
- Q What if my employer is no longer in business or deceased?
A A letter from another responsible individual such as a local electrical and/or building inspector, supervisor, former owner or corporate officer may be acceptable.
- Q How much credit will I get for unlicensed experience such as maintenance, military or mine work?
A If the experience was in violation of licensing laws or between the ages of 16-18 NO credit can be given, unless the experience was obtained in a Federal Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training 'School to Apprenticeship Program.' Maintenance, military or mine experience that was exempt from licensing laws may receive from no credit to full credit depending on the nature of the work performed.
- Q Who can sponsor me as an apprentice?
A The person or firm who has control of your hiring, employment and training and who can guarantee compliance with the licensing laws (including the appropriate journeyman to apprentice or master to apprentice ratios) and can guarantee compliance with NEC codes may sponsor you as an apprentice. In general, this will be a licensed electrical contractor or an organization with the above control such as the JATC. Employers who are exempt from licensing may not sponsor apprentices unless they have appropriately licensed individuals as supervisors in a one-on-one ratio.
- Q What form of documentation must I provide to receive credit for previous schooling? OR How much credit can I get for schooling experience?
A An official transcript and a copy of your degree or diploma will be required. The documentation must show schooling that is directly and significantly related to "electrical work" as covered by the NEC, in order to qualify for credit.

You must have successfully completed a course of study and have received a degree, a certificate of completion, or a diploma to get credit for previous schooling. Maximum benefits from apprenticeship are received by concurrent on-the-job training and related schooling. If you have completed a course as outlined above you may receive credit for one (1) year of apprenticeship school and nine (9) months work experience. As an alternative, you may qualify for full credit for apprentice schooling but no work experience. Applicants with higher levels of training such as an Associate Degree in Electricity or Bachelor of Science Degree in Electrical Engineering may qualify for additional credit toward approval to take the masters examination.
